MATRIMONIAL TROUBLES AIRED IN COURT THIS MORNING.

Convert to Dowie Left Wife at Peaceful Farmington Home and Went West to Zion City.

SEPARATED AFTER 11 YEARS.

Desertion Was Also the Charge in a Number of Other Divorces Granted.
Connellsville Man Freed from Wife Who Left Him.

UNIONTOWN, July 23.—This was divorce day in court and matrimonial troubles took up the better part of today's session. In all six separations from the marital bonds were decreed by Judge Repper, and Umbel. The conversion of her husband as a disciple of John Alexander Dowie, Elijah II, was the principal bill of complaint that Mrs. Annie Watson filed against John Watson. This couple was married December 24, 1890, and lived happily near Farmington until an evil day, some 11 years ago, when one Jesse Jackson, one of Dowie's faithful, came to stay for a while at the Watson home. Jackson persuaded Watson that he was doing evil by cohabiting with a woman, and in spite of Mrs. Watson's emphatic protests to the contrary, John was finally convinced. The woman tried to hold him to her as long as possible, but a short time after Jackson left he left the peaceful precincts of Farmington and went west to join the Dowie band. The divorce was granted.

Other separations were allowed on the grounds of desertion. Pearl L. Laughman was married September 15, 1904, to Luther Baughman of Fairchance, but he left her a short time later.

Charles Cuneo of Connellsville was allowed a divorce because his wife, Maria, deserted a short time after being married in January, 1901.

Ola and Ira Smith were married in Morgantown, W. Va., May 1, 1902. He left home six days after the marriage and is now in Virginia. She lives at Uniontown. The divorce was granted. Baruch Rosen of New Haven was given a divorce from Tessie Rosen. She left him a few days after being married on December 19, 1906. Hayward Garland, who married Dora Garland at Danville, Va., in 1894, left after living with her for six years, and now Dora, who lives in Uniontown, has secured a divorce. Louise Devault was granted a divorce from Edward Devault of Uniontown on the grounds of extreme cruelty. They lived together but a short time.

The divorce suit of Mary B. Desseins against George Desseins was remanded by the court with leave to take additional testimony. The couple were married in New Haven July 3, 1905.

A new trial was refused in the case of Thomas Pope and George True, two men convicted of robbing James Sheppard, an old soldier, at Rainey Junction.

The rule was made absolute in the case of Thomas L. Diskin of Scottsdale against Martin Schneider. This was a dispute over a judgment of $100 entered in Diskin's favor. The rule confirms it.

The license of the V. Underhill Distilling Company was granted by Judge Umbel, who stated that all requirements have been complied with by the company.

The controversy between the trustees of the Laurel Hill church will be aired next week. This is the dispute over the sale of coal to W. A. Stone of Uniontown.

Charles F. Hood, President of the Indiana Creek Valley Railway, this morning filed an affidavit of defense in the suit of Ananias Schroyer, denying indebtedness to the plaintiff.

The will of Elizabeth Newmyer of Dawson has been admitted to probate. She was settling aside $100 for a tombstone for herself and husband, everything is left to the daughter, Emily McGill, for services to the deceased during her lifetime.

Chester papers of the Tribune Publishing Company have been placed on file. The company is capitalized at $25,000, with the following stockholders: H. L. Robinson, Daniel Sturgeon, T. Scott Dunn, W. H. Martin, W. M. Likins, Albert Gaddis and Samuel W. Jones.

The charters of the Presbyterian congregations of Fayette City and New Salem were this morning approved by the court.

In the two cases of Alex. J. Lawson against W. C. McCormick the rules requiring Lawson to show cause why he should not give security to guarantee payment of the costs were made absolute.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

Causes Death of Little Rachael Mitts This Morning.

Rachael Mitts, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitts, died at an early hour this morning at her late residence at the Tanyard hollow, death resulting from cholera infantum, age 1 year, 8 months and 14 days.

Funeral from the family residence tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. W. V. Burnhart of the United Brethren church, officiating. Interment in Chestnut Hill cemetery.

MAIL DELIVERY

From Railroad Stations to New Post Office Location Will Require Horse, Wagon and Two Men.

Acting under instructions from the Postoffice Department, Postmaster Clark Collins posted notices this morning inviting proposals for carrying the mails between the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania railroads to the new postoffice quarters in the Masonic building, South Pittsburgh street.

Ten round trips daily are made between the office and the Baltimore & Ohio station and seven from the Pennsylvania depot. The service to the new postoffice location will require the use of a horse and probably an assistant, as both routes are to be let under one contract, and the distance is so great that the antiquated wheelbarrow will not be profitable.

Blank proposals and all necessary information may be obtained from the postmaster. Proposals will be accepted until the evening of August 1st.

IN POLICE COURT.

Perennial Visitor at the Bastille Comes Back and Promises to Be Real Good.

An unusual arrest was made early this morning when Officers Mitts and McDonald placed two inoffensive suitcases in duress ville. The two valises were placed in cell No. 3 for safe keeping and an entry made in proper form on the police blotter.

This morning a traveling man stopping at a local hotel called for the cases. They were left there by the porter, who, upon returning for them, found them missing. They were found by the police at the corner of Main street and Meadow alley.

George W. Fay of Blairsville, Pa., a perennial visitor at the police station, was charged with drunkenness. Fay, as usual, had a long tale to tell the Burgess, how he went to sleep Sunday afternoon just outside of town and was robbed. Burgess Solsson released him upon a promise to leave town immediately.

Thomas Moore, of Baltimore, Md., a moulder by trade, was arrested for being drunk but was discharged upon giving a good account of himself.

William Carlston, a colored boy of Atlanta, Ga., was discharged. He was arrested for trespass. Mrs. Latson took 48 hours for being drunk while Andy Bryk paid $3.50 for the same offense.

EAVESDROPPING

Charged Against Somerset County Farm Hand Who Followed Girl Home from Church Sunday.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.
SOMERSET, July 23.—There was considerable excitement here yesterday when William Tomlinson, a farm hand, was arrested and incarcerated in the borough jail for eavesdropping and being a suspicious character. He was given a hearing this morning before Burgess William H. Welley and was released on his own recognizance. The case was continued till next Monday when a hearing will be had and a decision rendered.

A well known young lady of North street was on her way home from church Sunday evening when she noticed that a man was following her. When she entered her home she noticed that a man had located outside of her house and seemed to be watching her home. The thought of burglars at once entered her mind and she telephoned for an officer who arrived promptly and arrested Tomlinson, taking him to the borough prison and keeping him there until Monday morning.

Tomlinson seemed to be penitent and heartily ashamed of his conduct. It is believed by many persons that he meant no harm. He seems to be ignorant of the customs of a town and it is likely that he will be released after his hearing upon the payment of a fine. It was rumored that Tomlinson was the "real woman in white." He is employed on a farm about a mile from town.

Death was due to lung trouble. He is survived by his parents and two sisters and three brothers.

Funeral from the late residence tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock Requiem high mass will be celebrated at 9:30 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception church. Interment in St. Joseph cemetery.

KILLED BY A HORSE.

John Arnold, Veteran Stable Boss, Dies by Kick From Animal.

WAS STRUCK IN THE STOMACH

John Arnold Had Been For Over a Score of Years Working for the Frick People at Broadford and Morgan and then Went to the Orient Works to Take a Similar Position.

John Arnold for a score of years located at Broadford and Morgan station as a stable boss for the U. S. Frick Coke Company, and who was one of the men who went with O. W. Kennedy when he started the Orient Coke company's works at Orient to take a similar position. Three years ago, was killed by a horse on Monday afternoon, so badly that he died a few hours afterward, at the Uniontown hospital. The horse kicked him with both hoofs, and the terrible blow caught Mr. Arnold in the stomach. He never rallied from the shock, although there were intervals when he was conscious. He passed away in the Uniontown hospital about 7 o'clock.

Doctors were called and the injured man was taken to the hospital arriving there about 4 o'clock. His family physician, Dr. A. W. Strickler, of Scottsdale, was telephoned for and left there on the noon car. No skill could avail for the injured man. His wife, who has been in poor health for several years, is bearing up as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

Mr. Arnold was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Arnold, who lived for many years at Morgan station, coming originally from Frostburg, Md. The older was one of the earliest coke workers in the region. He has been dead for several years, and his widow died about a year ago.

The deceased was a man of most exemplary character, was a member of the Methodist Protestant Church, was a dutiful son, and a kind and consistent husband, and a firm and steady friend. As has been said, he was stable boss for many years for the Frick company, and when O. W. Kennedy, resigned as General Manager of that company, Mr. Arnold was one of those who went with him to the new company of which the former became the head. Mr. Kennedy was among those who were with Mr. Arnold when he died in the Uniontown hospital.

The deceased is survived by his widow and following brothers and sisters. Charles Arnold, of Broadford;

Nathan Arnold, Jr., and George Arnold of Orient, Fayette county, and Mrs. Rachel Powers and Mrs. Fannie Smith of Frostburg, Md. The funeral services will be held in the Methodist Protestant church of Connellsville on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, with interment in the Chestnut Hill cemetery.

HAS A MANIA.

Westmoreland County Young Man Cannot Resist Temptation to Burn Barns.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.
GREENSBURG, July 23.—In the arrest of James Rosensteel, a young man of Hempfield township, the county officials believe that they have in custody a dangerous paranoiac who is better behind the bars than at large. Incidentally, he must answer to a charge of arson for the burning of a house and barn at the 22nd No. 2 mines of the Pittsburgh & Baltimore Coal Company early on Monday morning.

It hasn't been quite a year since he was released from Huntingdon for the same offense. That time he burned at least six big barns in his home neighborhood, among them being one on his father's farm. It was thought he was entirely reformed when the school authorities allowed him out on a conditional parole. Saturday morning the house was first fired. Neighbors fought the flames hard and had them about subdued when the barn burst into flame. While trying to save the house was consumed, and late the barn burned to the ground. Rosensteel was following in the vicinity and was immediately placed under arrest.

Lightning also played havoc with telephones. Sixty phones of the Tri-State company were put out of commission. At the home of Squire High lightning followed the wire into the house and knocked the plastering off the wall where the phone is placed. The same thing happened at the home of C. B. Stewart on Water street. A locust tree near the B. & O. station, a sycamore on the Richards lot on Water street and a large wild cherry on the Abraham farm on the Monongahela road each received a severe jolt from lightning bolts. A heavy rain accompanied the great electrical disturbance.

ROY CLABAUGH HURT.

Member of Connellsville Band Struck by Trolley Pole at Camp.

Roy Clabaugh of Connellsville, a member of the Tenth Regiment band, was badly injured yesterday at Camp Tippon while going out to try to see his wife on a car to visit friends.

A pole along the Trolley line struck him, fracturing his skull. This morning his condition was serious.

Chief Barclay Re-elected.

Fire Chief John Barclay was tonight unanimously re-elected to his position by the Fire and Water committees of Greensburg Town Council. He has been at the head of the Greensburg organization for a number of years.

Killed by Blow of Fate.

Charles Hood, a young Fairmont boy, struck R. E. Clingan at Outland, Md., and Clingan fell, striking his head against a rail, dying this week of the injury. Clingan was drunk and abusive to Hood's wife in their restaurant.

THE COKE REGION'S TROLLEY WILL EXTEND TO ALL PLANTS.

West Penn's Great System Will Before Many Months Be Tapping Every Town and Hamlet in the District.

MISS CURRY'S FUNERAL.

Interment was Made This Afternoon at Two O'clock.

The funeral of the late Miss Jane Curry took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence on South Prospect street. Rev. A. J. Asher, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

The services were attended by many friends of the deceased. Interment in Hill Grove cemetery.

BIG STORM.

Lightning Plays Havoc With Barns, Horses and Rigs in Southern Fayette County.

Special to The Courier.

SMITHFIELD, July 23.—One of the worst electrical storms ever experienced in this section passed over Southern Fayette county last evening. The storm came up about five o'clock. It lasted over an hour. During that time there was a continuous crack of thunder, accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning, which struck in many localities.

The burg of Postmas or A. J. St. John about a mile south of here on the Morgantown road, was struck at 7 o'clock. All the contents were destroyed. The Wharton Coke Company had occupied the barn ever since their plant here was started. They had nine head of horses killed in it at the time it was struck. All the horses were safely taken up. Large quantities of feed and the sets of harness were burned. This is the third barn that Mr. Sutton had burned on the same foundation.

The two other fires were started by his children playing with matches. Three large hoes, owned by William Klugan who lives on the High House road at the borough limits, were struck by lightning and killed. At the new Collier coke works of the U. S. Frick Coke Company, James Sully had a valuable team of horses killed. They were moved after the bolt struck them. The driver had just jumped off the wagon to take shelter in a shanty when the team was struck. A hog owned by George Bowman, who lives half a mile from here on the Geneva road, was killed by a lightning flash.

Two horses were killed at the Desseins coke works, lightning being responsible for their deaths. Dr. R. C. Griddle of Fairchance lost a valuable horse which was killed while standing in his stable. The barn at High House was badly damaged by the storm. The smokestacks at the coke works on the Collier farm, where much other damage was done, were blown down.

Lightning also played havoc with telephones. Sixty phones of the Tri-State company were put out of commission. At the home of Squire High lightning followed the wire into the house and knocked the plastering off the wall where the phone is placed. The same thing happened at the home of C. B. THE COKE REGION'S TROLLEY

Will Before Many Months Be Tapping Every Town and Hamlet in the District.

Before a great while the West Penn Railway Company will have cars running into practically every town and hamlet in the Connellsville coke region. A perfect network of lines is gradually being formed extending from Latrobe and Greensburg on the north to the Monongahela river on the south. The main line now running from Greensburg to Uniontown with extensions into the Klondyke country of Southern Fayette county and extensions building toward Smithfield, Masontown and Brownsville, tap almost every important district in the coke region. Gradually branches will be extended to every hamlet, thus bringing the residents into direct and easy communication with the larger towns. Cross lines are contemplated completely covering this busy district in industrial section of West Pennsylvania.

Through a deal closed yesterday the West Penn Company acquired a controlling interest in the stock of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Greensburg Street Railway Company. The effect is to give the West Penn system extending from Masontown, Fayette county, through the principal towns in Westmoreland county to Truitt City, Allegheny county, a direct connection at the latter company system. Negotiations had been in progress for several weeks.

At a meeting held in Greensburg yesterday afternoon the board of the Greensburg company was reorganized all the retiring directors with the exception of Lloyd B. Huff and Richard L. Coulter, Jr. Separate organizations will be maintained and the new board of directors and officers of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Greensburg Railway Company are: Lloyd B. Huff, president; Richard L. Coulter, Jr., J. H. Purdy, vice presidents; J. B. Van Wagener, treasurer; H. L. Lynde and Byron Trimble are new directors representing the West Penn Railway Company.

The addition of the 38 miles of the Greensburg company gives the West Penn Railway Company a total mileage of 154 miles, and makes it the largest inter-urban traction system in the State. The combined capitalization is $13,055,000. The total deal involves the joint ownership of all the charters acquired by both companies between Greensburg and Latrobe. It is said the line between these two cities will soon be built. The West Penn railways also furnishes electric light and power to nearly two score towns and cities in this territory, including Masontown, Uniontown, Connellsville, Dawson, Scottdale, Erverson, Youngwood, Greensburg, Joannette, Manor and Irwin. Motive power is also supplied to several of the coke works for their electric equipment from the big power plant on the Yough above Connellsville. The gross earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, approximated $1,600,000.

The officers of the West Penn Railway Company are: Chairman of the Board, E. C. Converse; President, W. S. Kuhn; Vice President, J. S. Kuhn; Secretary, R. D. Watt; and Treasurer, J. B. Van Wagener.

A SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS.

O'Hara's Boys Bumped the
B. & O. Clerks
27 to 3.

GAME CALLED IN THE SEVENTH.

West Penn Leaguers Then Had Almost Prostrated Themselves Encircling the Bases—Denny O'Hara
Showed the Boys How He Can Twirl.

Although the B. & O. Clerks may be the real thing in the City League, Big Chief Denny O'Hara and his cohorts proved pretty conclusively yesterday that the Pen Pushers are Small Potatoes when it comes to Playing Real Base Ball. It only took the Connellsville Stalwarts seven innings to do the Ambitious Ones pretty badly, the final score being 27 to 3. It might be here mentioned that the Three Runs Tallied by the Clerks were Pure Gifts, One Bill Birmingham taking Compassion on the Unfortunates and Heaving the Ball Wild a Couple of Times.

One Samly Mason, who has mowed down many opposing batters of City League teams, was on the Slab for the Clerks but he only lasted three innings. Twelve hits, one for a home run, sent Sandy to the stable, while Edgar Hicks, who can sling better than he can play ball, tried it on the raised mound. What they did to Edgar was a plenty, 13 bingles being registered off his delivery.

It was a real slaughter. Our boys swatted the ball at every opportunity. Every player got a hit. Eyerman, the man from Zanesville, started to pitch for Connellsville and allowed the Clerks but four scattered singles. Then Big Chief O'Hara went into the box and in three innings didn't allow a single hit. O, the Big Chief was pitching some.

It would be tiresome to the reader to tell how the runs were made. The Connellsville batters simply swung hard at the ball and it went where the Clerks wasn't. Out of sympathy some of the errors weren't chalked up. Following is a comprehensive box score of the grand contest, on which a few odd cents were realized:

Connellsville, AB, R, H, P, A, E.	Birmingham, s-s-b

Home runs, O'Hara 2. Two base hits, Elham, Tate 2, King 2. Stolen bases, Elham, Birmingham 2. Time, 1 hour 20 minutes. Umpire, Markey.

Notes of the Game.
Hicks dropped a nice fly hit to left by Birmingham. The ball was right in his hands but wouldn't stick.
Big Chief O'Hara pitched a nice game. He was unhit.

Sandy Mason's throwing was bad. Wild heaves to first on two occasions proved costly.

Hicks may be some benches when City League teams are battling him but he didn't have any of the West Penn sluggers faded.

The Connellsville infield was shifted about. Amsbury went to first, Tiffany to second, Birmingham to short and Elham to third. It worked like a charm.

That boy Elham is fast on his feet. He got some drives that should have been clean singles.

The Clerks didn't play a bad game. Most of the drives were hard and out of reach.

McHugh got two difficult flies in right, while Faulkner pulled down one that was a ringer.

Time made a pretty catch in mid air field in the sixth. The ball was short but Elmer bagged it.

King cracked out a nice two bagger in the first but couldn't score. The hit was a dandy.

Martin May and Tom Baxter were seen warming up. This gave rise to the report that they would compose the battery for Connellsville.

Where would the B. & O. Clerks be in the West Penn?

The Clerks are in their proper class in the City League. The Types are members of the City League, too.

The Clerks had stage fright.
If the West Penn team could distribute those hits and runs over the circuit in league games they would come in handy.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Doings of the Players in the West Penn and the P. O. M.

The Uniontown Champs have fallen into an awful rut and there will be things doing in a few days. Yesterday at East Liverpool they were bumped by the Potters 5 to 1 in a listless game. The Champs have no life or glister, don't hit the ball and run bases in stupid fashion. If Stubs and Zanesville were prevented from playing yesterday by rain, McKeesport defeated Washington 1 to 0 in 11 innings, and Charleroi won from Bradnock 1 to 1.

What a mighty wall is coming up from Fairmont! Down that way they are threatening half the team with the "can" unless the players take a brace. Such is the reward for losing a game or two.

Pitcher Fenske of the Latrobe Cumberland-Connellsville team has given up base ball and is now employed in the shops here of Boys-Potter & Company.

Uniontown is another village from which emanates the joyous notes of the kuckers.
Taking it all the way through there has been less knocking in Connellsville than any other team in the two leagues.

Reports that Scottdale is on the tagged edge is denied in the Mill town. When the present management gets enough there are lots of others willing to back the team, it is said.

Alex Lawson comes to Connellsville under such terms that he can give the directors a cut down for "cutting in" if he so desires. It is safe bet that Lawson will run his team as long as he is here, and that he will stay only as long as he is full control.

The Washington team in the P. O. M. League was put to the bed by recent rains. Its grounds were laid to flood and put out of commission for several days.

Did Uniontown halt the Stars?

Hardly.
Tom Fleming's Prohibition is from East Liverpool aren't setting the world on fire with their play. It looks like second division for the Potters.

STILL WINNING.

Scottdale Defeated Greensburg in Nice Game at Ellsworth Park Yesterday.

Scottdale is still winning in the West Penn League. Crab took a nice game from Greensburg yesterday, 3 to 1. Scottdale won in the eighth inning, scoring two runs. The hitting of both nines was fast, the work of White, Nugent and Stilwell being sensational at times. Crab let Greensburg down with four hits while Emerling gave Scottdale five. There was not an extra base bingle.

At Butler Charleroi lost a five in nine game with a pitched up team. Some of the Charleroi players, misad the train out of Pittsburgh and they filled in with City League players from Butler. Butler won, 3 to 0. Fairmont woke up from their slump and beat Beaver Falls 7 to 6 in a game at Beaver Falls marked by heavy hitting and errors at critical stages. Beaver Falls had 14 hits off McFarlan and Fairmont had nine off Michaels. Fairmont won in the eighth inning, scoring three runs. Beaver Falls scored two.

Our Presidents

ANDREW JOHNSON.

The seventeenth president of the United States was born at Raleigh, N. C., in 1808. He served in both houses of congress and as governor of Tennessee. He was elected vice president on the ticket with Lincoln in 1864 and succeeded to the presidency upon the death of the latter, April 15, 1865. The president was impeached in 1868 after a long series of disagreements with congress, escaping conviction by a single vote in the senate. The acquittal of Johnson is now generally approved. He was elected to the senate from Tennessee in 1875 and died in office a few months later.

WILL BE A BIG PICNIC

Scottdale and Everson Preparing for Tomorrow's Great Outing.

MANY OTHER POINTS WILL JOIN

New Amusement House Opens on Broadway With Big Crowds—Jarrett Family Reunion Being Held Today. Death of John Arnold.

SCOTSDALE, July 22.—There is every indication that the third annual outing of the Scottdale and Everson business men and manufacturers to Olympia Park, Versailles, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, tomorrow, will surpass for attendance and interest any of the previous picnics from here. The merchants and manufacturers have leased this popular pleasure ground for the day, and invite every one to join them in having a day of pleasure. There will be many who will take this opportunity of reduced rates to take a spin in to Pittsburgh. The round trip is 75 cents for adults and 40 cents for children. The special trains will leave Everson at 8.15 and 8.25 A. M., making all stops to Broad Ford. The special trains returning leave Versailles at 7.30 and 7.40 P. M. The West Penn railway will connect from Mt. Pleasant and all points on their line at Everson with the last train leaving. There is a ball game between the Washington and McKeesport teams of the P. O. M. League scheduled for the day, that will interest the fans. There will be music and dancing all day, boating, roller skating, merry-go-round, figure eight, miniature railroad, circle swing, penny arcade and many other amusements. Tickets may be had at the Broadway department store, W. J. Barkell's music store, S. A. Lowe's drug store, M. A. McCombs' grocery store and F. R. Parkers.

The Fair Department Store in Mt. Pleasant offers special inducements to Greensburg and vicinity shoppers during the great Dissolution Sale. They will pay far more on a purchase of $5 and over.

The sad news of the fatal injuries of John Arnold at Orient from the kick of a vicious horse, Monday, was heard with great regret by many folks here, where he has relatives and made many firm friends during the years he was with the Frick company at Broad Ford.

The Fair in Mt. Pleasant has added a large force of extra salespeople to accommodate the big crowd during the great Dissolution Sale.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Anderson and daughter, Adeline of Scottdale and Mrs. W. B. Anderson and daughter, Elizabeth of New Haven, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Anderson of Jones' Mill over Sunday.

Dr. L. T. Gilbert and Mrs. Gilbert of Chestnut street have been quite ill for several days, but now show some slight signs of improving.

The Jarrett family reunion, in honor of Thomas M. Jarrett, is being held at the home of John Jarrett, of Pennsylvania today, with a great crowd from here and other points.

The Fair, Mt. Pleasant's big department store, will be closed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 24, 25 and 26, to get ready for the big Dissolution Sale.

The new vaudeville theatre on Broadway was opened Monday night with great crowds. Souvenirs were given the women. The show is well spoken of, being vaudeville and moving pictures.

The Reformed Church picnic is being held today at Oakford Park. A large crowd left at an early hour.

Joseph Kobacker, the silent partner of the Fair Department Store, Mt. Pleasant, is withdrawing his share from the concern. They will start the big Dissolution Sale Saturday, July 27, at 8 A. M.

We Don't Conduct a Matrimonial Agency, But Listen to This:

We could (but will not, of course) name fifty to one hundred young marrieds if it had not been for our easy plan of selling furniture, carpets, rugs and household furnishings.

The point is this: Dozens of young couples put off marrying because they have not enough money in the bank to pay for a home outfit. Some of them finally become tired of it and do one of the three things:

FIRST Give up the idea of wedding altogether.

SECOND Get married and live in meagerly furnished rooms.

THIRD Buy "the Aaron way," live happily, easily and in a civilized manner, with all the furniture they need and all the time they want to pay for it.

The first alternative is decidedly out of the question. The second is absolutely unnecessary. The third is a demonstration of good, modern common sense.

You need not have a bank account to get what you want at the Aaron store. Notice we say "what you want." This means "as much as you want"—no matter if it's a whole home outfit. Simply come and pick it out and then we'll get together regarding how much you will pay us each month or so.

How do we know that you'll pay us? Why, we trust you. That's all. No red tape. No bothersome preliminaries. We trust you through and through. Do you trust us? Do you believe we'll deal square by you? Have you ever heard a complaint against Aaron's? Do you know any friend or neighbor who has traded with us? Ask him (or her) what sort of people we are and what sort of merchandise we sell and at what prices we sell it. Then you'll trust us as we trust you. Let this sink deep into your conviction. It's a splendid way out of your home-furnishing difficulties.

One thing more: We mark each piece of furniture with its price in plain figures. We use no secret signs. You don't have to ask the salesman "What's the price of this?" Look at the tag. See for yourself. This is another beauty of "the Aaron way."

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS ARE SAVED TO PIANO BUYERS.

W. F. Frederick Music Co.'s Introductory Sale, Reinhard's Music Store, Next Door to Post Office—Open Evenings—Easy Terms.

To those who determined at the beginning of this sale and those who have put off from time to time a visit to our new Connellsville ware rooms, is this article addressed.

You have not another moment to lose. The number of instruments to be sold at these sacrifice prices is limited.

The sale is only to run a very few days now—and doubtless the piano of your choice will be gone before the last day.

We are ranking piano buying easy in this sale, and safe as it is easy. Every piano is a leader in its class and there is not a poor one in the lot. No matter what your favorite piano may be, we believe that if you act promptly, you will find here just what you want in make, price and terms.

You may want a CHICKERING. You may want a HARDMAN. You may want a STRICK & ZEIDLER.

You may want a W. F. FREDERICK. You may want a KIMBALL. Or a PRICE & TEEPLE. LAKE-SIDE, BRINKERHOFF, SHERWOOD or some other celebrated make. Here they are in plain and fancy cases and all the fancy woods, marked at prices lower than ever before.

$250 upright pianos for $117.
$300 upright pianos for $215.
$400 upright pianos for $254.

$450 upright pianos for $287.
$500 upright pianos for $325.
Terms—CASH OR EASY PAYMENTS.

This is the time for provident money-saving people to supply their home and family with a strictly first-class piano, while they can make such a saving, and yet be perfectly safe in this investment.

W. F. Frederick Music Co. guarantees every piano sold at this sale, and the stock consists of the highest class of instruments that money and skill can produce.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that because the prices are low that they are not up to the standard. They are all of the same class that W. F. Frederick has sold in this territory for upwards of twenty years. Very true, many of them contain the late improvements and some have interior player mechanism, but there is not a so-called cheap piano in the lot. Were you to pay the usual price you would only get the same quality of instrument, therefore, the big discount is clearly that much saved.

It will pay you to buy now, even if you would not have use for a piano in the next two (2) years.

We cordially invite every one to come and see this magnificent stock whether intending to buy or not, and we remain open evenings until 9 o'clock. E. E. Schellhase, Manager.

A MINING INSTITUTE.

Y. M. C. A. Will Hold One in Connellsville on Wednesday.

BITUMINOUS DISTRICT'S WORK.

Fine Program Has Been Arranged and Mining Men From All Over the Coke Region Are Expected—Benefit to Be Derived.

The Mining Institutes now being held under the direction of the State Y. M. C. A. Bituminous Committee, of which C. L. Fay is Secretary, will prove a surprising success. The purpose of the Institute is for the spread of a better knowledge of the science of mining. Many of the accidents which are averted when the miners as well as the mining officials have a more intelligent knowledge of coal mining science. It is hoped also that as a result of these Mining Institutes, classes in mining may be organized over this bituminous district. In these classes young men are given a scientific course in coal mining, preparing them to take a position as mine foreman, fire boss and other offices of trust about the mines.

The Institute recently held at Fayette City was attended by one hundred and twenty miners and mine officials. It is expected that the Institute to be held in the Connellsville Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon and evening of this week will be the most largely attended of any yet held. This Institute will begin at two o'clock Thursday afternoon and will be presided over by D. P. Brown. The program to be given is as follows:

8 P. M., Chairman: John Boyle, Secretary. Session opened at 2 o'clock P. M. address by Chairman. 7.15, paper, "Causes of Mine Accidents and How to Overcome Them," Patrick Slavin, Dawson. 8.30, paper, "Deficiencies of Mine Ventilation and Their Causes," D. L. Brown, Connellsville. 9.30 to 10.30, Institute supper and social hour; C. L. Fay, Greensburg, toastmaster. 7.30, question box and answers. 8.30, paper, "Creeps and Squeezes: Cause and Prevention," J. L. Robbins, Summit. 9.30, closing address, Fred C. Koughley, Uniontown. Each paper will be followed by a general discussion.

The banquet to be served from 5.30 to 7.30 will be given under the direction of the local Y. M. C. A. Any person interested may become a member of this Institute, which is to be an annual affair, by the payment of one dollar a year including admission to the Institute and banquet. It is hoped that many local men will avail themselves of this opportunity of encouraging a good thing. Secretary Eby announces that Floyd W. Parsons, editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of New York City, will be present at the Institute; also, Charles R. Townes, Industrial Secretary to the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A.

Eighteen violators. Eighteen merchants of Uniontown kept their stores open on Sunday and were fined.

BUYING COAL.

Greensburg Men Get Large Tracts in Ohio.

An important deal has just been pulled through with Huffman & Rice of Waynesburg, by which O. J. Mechling of near Greensburg comes into the possession of 2,000 acres of coal in Monroe county, O. The consideration was $80,000. John G. Felgar of Greensburg has also secured a large acreage.

Judge Steel has large holdings amounting to thousands of acres in the same region. Other Greensburg people are negotiating for the purchase of the same coal, which is Pittsburg No. 8.

PROHIBS' STRONGHOLD.

Berlin, Somerset County, Hears How Fayette County Spent Money in Judicial Campaign.

Special to The Courier. BERLIN, Pa., July 22.—Berlin is the prohibition stronghold of Somerset county, and it falls far short of being an uncommon occurrence for prohibition candidates to be elected in this town. Today they have a Justice of the Peace, three School Directors, two Borough Auditors and the Minority Inspector.

Last night the Rev. S. W. Bryan, pastor of the Berlin Methodist Episcopal church, preached an eloquent discourse on the subject of prohibition. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity and the discourse lasted fully one hour.

It was not one of the old time temperance sermons, but a sermon full of prohibition politics from Dan to Baersheba. He called particular attention to the large sums spent to secure the nomination for Judge of the Fayette County Court of Common Pleas. He argued that the "dissemination of information" covered a multitude of sins, and a multitude of booze. Both old parties were thoroughly ventilated, and the speaker urged his hearers to pray as they voted. He stated that he would on no condition ask them to vote as they prayed, since by complying with such a request they would not vote once in ten years.

The drunkard or the saloon keeper were not severely scored, as was anticipated. The ones who caught it the worst were the church members who voted other than the prohibition ticket. A great deal of wit and humor abounded throughout the discourse.

FEAR DUSTERS.

South Penn Company, However, Gets Good Well on Frosty Run. The South Penn Oil & Gas Company struck a big flow of gas in the "Big Injun" one day last week on the Frank Blaker farm in the Frosty Run territory, which will develop into an elegant well of high pressure, so it is predicted by the owners.

The wells which were drilled by the same company on the Long and Creek farms adjacent are not showing much signs of gas or oil, although down to the depth of the Blaker well, so that it is feared they will result in "dusters."

The Sunday Courier Will contain all of the latest telegraph news of the world as well as all of the local news of the coke region. Order it from your carrier.

A BIG GASSER.

Drilled in in Grant District, West Virginia.

Morgantown, July 23.—[Special.]—The Union Utility Company has drilled in a bounding gas well on the Alf Morris farm, near Georgetown in the Grant district. The flow of the gas when the well came in could be heard for a great distance, and nothing else could be heard by the people around the Derrick. Reliable parties who saw the test made for pressure report that a productive capacity of 10,000,000 cubic feet per day was indicated. The company did not get the well closed in until Thursday.

The new gasser is located between the Thornton Miller well and the development on the Gene Snyder farm.

Connellsville Up-to-Date.

Mr. David Margoff, owner and director of the Bijou Theatre, "House Beautiful," has shown to the public the "Bike Parade," which was taken in Philadelphia on Wednesday, July 15th. This goes to prove that the Connellsville public is being benefited by seeing moving pictures just as soon as they are produced by the manufacturers.

Before the invasion of "House Beautiful," the Connellsville public was never educated to advanced moving pictures, owing to the fact that there was no competition, but now the competitors are compelled to improve and show the same pictures at the same time. "They can't beat us unless they cheat."

If you want to see moving pictures just as soon as they are produced, come to "The Bijou." We do not rent our pictures—we operate our own film exchange. Our competitors will tell you that.

In order to prevent the public from seeing the same show the second time, they will protect themselves by reading the placards which are exhibited in front of the theatre.

Uniontown Well Policed.

Uniontown is now well policed. Besides the bar policemen there are two men and the Chief on in the day time and five men and Assistant Chief on at night.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. The cause of it is colds, catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Woman In the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN.

Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Fillmore Ball," "The House in the Mist," "The Amethyst Box," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, THE ROBBES-MERRILL COMPANY.

This something was a cry, coming from no one knew where, which, unearthly in its shrillness and the power it had on the imagination, reverberated through the house and died away in a wail so weird, so thrilling and so prolonged that it gripped not only my own nerves and weakened heart, but those of the ten strong men congregated below me. The diamond dropped from Mr. Grey's hand, and neither he nor any one else moved to pick it up. Not till silence had come again—a silence almost as unendurable to the sensitive ear as the cry which had preceded it—did any one stir or think of the gem. Then one gentleman after another bent to look for it, but with no success, till one of the waiters, who possibly had followed it with his eye or caught sight of its sparkle on the edge of the rug, whether it had rolled, sprung and picked it up and handed it back to Mr. Grey.

Instinctively the Englishman's hand closed on it, but it was very evident to me, and I think to all, that his interest in it was gone. If he looked at it he did not see it, for he stood like one stunned all the time that agitated men and women were running hither and thither in unavailing efforts to locate the sound yet ringing in their ears. As all these various searches had all come together again, in terror of a mystery they could not solve, did he let his hand fall and himself awake to the scene about him.

The words he at once gave utterance to were as remarkable as all the rest. "Gentlemen," said he, "you must pardon my agitation. This cry—you need not seek its source—is one to which I am only too well accustomed. I have been the happy father of six children. Five I have buried, and before the death of each this same cry has echoed in my ears. I have but one child left, a daughter. She is ill at the hotel. Do you wonder that I shrink from this note of warning and show myself something less than a man under its influence? I am going home, but first, one word about this stone." Here he lifted it and bestowed or appeared to bestow on it an anxious scrutiny, putting on his glasses and examining it carefully before passing it back to the inspector.

"I have heard," said he, with a change of tone which must have been noticeable to every one, "that this stone was a very superior one and quite worthy of the fane it bore here in America. But gentlemen, you have all been greatly deceived in it; no one more than he who was willing to commit murder for its possession. The stone which you have just been good enough to allow me to inspect is no diamond, but a carefully manufactured bit of paste not worth the rich and elaborate setting which has been given to it. I am sorry to be the one to say this, but I have made a study of precious stones, and I cannot let this barefaced imitation pass through my hands without a protest. Mr. Ramsdell, this to our host, 'I beg you will allow me to utter my excuses and depart at once. My daughter is worse—this I know as certainly as that I am standing here. The cry you have heard is the one superstition of our family. Pray God that I find her alive!'"

After this, what could he say? Though no one who heard him, not even my own romantic self, showed any belief in this interpretation of the remarkable sound that had just come thrilling through the house, yet, in face of his declared acceptance of it as a warning and the fact that all efforts had failed to locate the sound or even to determine its source, no other course seemed open but to let this distinguished man depart with the understanding that his superstitious fears were unwarranted.

That this was in opposition to the inspector's wishes was evident enough. Naturally he would have preferred Mr. Grey to remain, if only to make clear his surprising conclusions in regard to a diamond which had passed through the hands of some of the best judges in the country without a doubt having been valued as its genuineness.

With his departure the inspector's manner changed. He glanced at the stone in his hand and slowly shook his head.

"I doubt if Mr. Grey's judgment can be depended on," said he, and he nodded the gem as carefully as if his belief in its real value had been but "tute discarded by the as-sertions of this renowned foreigner."

I have no distinct remembrance of how I finally left the house or of what passed between my uncle and myself on my way home. I was numb with the shock, and neither my intelligence nor my feelings were any longer active. I recall but one impression, and that was the effect made on me by my old home on my arrival there, as of something new and strange, so much that I appeared and such changes had taken place in myself since leaving it hours before. But nothing else is vivid to my remembrance till that early hour of the dreary morning when, on walking to the world with a cry, I beheld my uncle's anxious figure bending over me from the footboard.

Instantly I found tongue and question after question heaped from my lips. He did not answer them. He could not. But when I grew feverish and insistent he drew the morning paper from behind his back and laid it quietly down within my reach. I felt calmed in an instant, and when after a few affectionate words he left me to myself I seized on the sheet and read what so many others were reading at that moment throughout the city. I spare you the account so far as it coincides with what I had myself seen and heard the night before. A few particulars which had not reached my ears will interest you. The instrument of death found in the place designated by Mr. Durand was one of note to such as had any taste or knowledge of curios. It was a stiletto of the most delicate type, long, keen and slender, not an American product, not even of this century's manufacture, but a relic of the days when deadly thrusts were given in the corners and byways of medieval streets.

This made the first mystery. The second was the as yet unexplainable presence on the alcove door of two broken coffee cups, which no waiter nor any other person, in fact, admitted having carried there. The tray, which had fallen from Peter Mooney's hand—the waiter who had been the first to give the alarm of murder—had held no cups, only leech. This was a fact, proved. But the handles of two cups had been found among the debris—cups which must have been full from the size of the coffee stain left on the rug where they had fallen.

In reading this I remembered that Mr. Durand had mentioned stepping on some broken pieces of china in his escape from the fatal scene, and, struck with this confirmation of a theory which was slowly taking form in my own mind, I passed on to the next paragraph with a sense of expectation.

The result was a surprise. Others may have been told, I was not, that Mrs. Falkbrother had received a communication from outside only a few minutes previous to her death. A Mr. Fullerton, who had preceded Mr. Durand in his visit to the alcove, owned to having opened the window for her at some call or signal from outside and taken in a small piece of paper which he saw lifted up from below on the end of a whip handle. If Mrs. Falkbrother's entreaty he explained the note and gave it to her. While she was puzzling over it, for it was apparently far from legible, he took another look out in time to mark a figure rush from below toward the carriage drive. He did not recognize the figure nor would he know it again. As to the nature of the communication itself he could say nothing, save that Mrs. Falkbrother did not seem to be affected favorably by it. She frowned and was looking very gloomy when he left the alcove. Asked if he had pulled the curtains together after closing the window, he said that he had not; that she had not requested him to do so.

This story, which was certainly a strange one, had been confirmed by the testimony of the chamberlain who had left his whip for the purpose. This chamberlain, who was known to be a man of extreme good nature, had seen no harm in lending his whip to a poor devil who wished to give a telegram or some such hasty message to the lady sitting just above them in a lighted window. The wind was fierce and the snow blinding, and it was natural that the man should duck his head, but he remembered his appearance well enough to say that he was either very cold or very much done up and that he wore a greatcoat with the collar pulled up about his ears. When he came back with the whip he seemed more cheerful than when he asked for it, but had no "thank you" for the favor done him, or if he had it was lost in his throat and the pleading gaze. The communication, which was rewarded by the police as a matter of the highest importance, had been found in her hand by the coroner. It was a mere scrawl written in pencil on a small scrap of paper. The following facsimile of the scrawl was given to the public in the hope that some one would recognize the handwriting:

He unopened the note.

No the note the note Expect trouble if

The first two lines overlapped and were confused, but the last one was clear enough. Expect trouble if—It what? Hundreds were asking the question at this very moment. I should soon be asking it, too, but first I must make an effort to understand the situation—a situation which up to now appeared to involve Mr. Durand, and Mr. Durand only, as the suspected party.

This was no more than I expected, yet it came with a shock under the broad glare of this wintry morning, so impossible did it seem in the light of everyday life that could be associated in any one's mind with a man of such unblemished record and excellent standing. But the evidence added against him was of a kind to appeal to the common mind—we all know that evidence—nor could I say, after reading the full account, that I was myself unaffected by its seeming weight. Not that my faith in his innocence was shaken. I had not his book of love and tender gratitude and my confidence in him had been restored, but I saw with all the clearness of a mind trained by continuous study how difficult it was going to be to counteract the prejudice induced, first, by his own inconsiderate acts, especially by that unfortunate attempt of his to accrete Mrs. Falkbrother's gloves in another woman's bag; and, secondly, by his peculiar explanations, which, to many must seem forced and unnatural. I saw and felt forced to a superhuman task. I believed him innocent, and if others failed to prove him so I would undertake to clear him myself—the little Rita, with no experience of law or courts or crime but with simply an unbounded faith in the man suspected and in the kindness of my own insight, an insight which had already served me so well and would serve me yet better once I had mastered the details which must be the pride of all intelligent action.

The morning's report stopped with the explanation given by Mr. Durand of the appearance of the gloves, consequently no word appeared of the man suspected and in the knowledge of my own insight, an insight which had already served me so well and would serve me yet better once I had mastered the details which must be the pride of all intelligent action.

The effect on my own mind of this suppression was a curious one. I began to wonder if the whole event had not been a chain of my disturbed brain—a nightmare which had visited me, and me alone, and not a fact to be reckoned with. But a moment's further thought served to clear my mind of all such doubts, and I turned to the police had exercised only common prudence in withholding Mr. Grey's sensational opinion of the stone till it could be verified by experts.

The two columns of gossip devoted to the family differences which had led to the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Falkbrother I shall compress into a few lines. They had been married three years before in the city of New York. He was a rich man then but not the millionaire he is today. Plain featured and without manner, he was no more for the sparkling coquette, whose charm was of the kind which grows with exercise. Though no actual scandal was ever associated with her name, she grew tired of her capricious and the conquests which she made up endeavor to hide either from him or from the world at large, and at some time during the previous year they had come to a friendly understanding which led to their living apart, each in grand style and with a certain deference to the proprieties which retained them their friends and an enviable place in society.

He was not off a day where she was, and she never appeared in any neighborhood where he was expected, but with this exception little feeling was shown. Matters proceeded smoothly, and to their credit, let it be said, no one ever heard either of them speak otherwise than civilly of the other. He was at present out of town having started some three weeks before for the northwest, but would probably return on receipt of the letter which had been sent him.

The comments made on the murder were necessarily hurried. It was called a mystery, but it was evident enough that Mr. Durand's detention was looked on as the almost certain prelude to his arrest on the charge of murder. I had had some disquiet in life. Although a favorite of my wealthy uncle, I had given up very early the prospect of his holding out to me of a comfortable and easy life. My uncle, who was a great deal of a miser, had entered an office which required self-denial and hard work. I did this because I enjoy having both my mind and heart occupied. To be necessary to some one, as a nurse is to a patient, seemed to me an elevating fate till I came under the influence of Anson Durand. Then the craving of all women for the comfort of the man sex became my aim, and I was content to remain to which I failed at first to yield, for I felt that it was unbecoming and thus a token of weakness. Finding my little I succeeded in winning him. As I thought, just as the nurse's diploma was put in my hands, I then came the great surprise of my life. Anson Durand expressed his love for me, and I would to the fact that all my preparations had been for home life and a woman's true existence. The first ray of ecstasy in the light of this new hope, then bravely and something approaching elation. Truly I had been through a schooling. But was I one to make use of the only way I could be useful power? I did not know. I did not care. I was determined from my course, for or with, and in the end brought by this appeal to my sense. I was not dressed and went about in my duties of the day.

One of these was to determine whether Mr. Grey on his return to his hotel, had found his daughter as ill as his fears had foreboded. A telephone message or two sent him on this point. Miss Grey was very ill, but not considered dangerously so; indeed, if anything, her condition was improved, and if nothing happened in the way of fresh complications the prospects were that she would be out in a fortnight.

I was not surprised. It was more than I had expected. The cry of the bandies in an American house was just belief, even in an atmosphere charged with fear and all the horror surrounding a great crime, and in the secret reckoning I was making against a person I still not even name at this juncture I added it as another suspicious circumstance.

REFUSED TO AID REVOLUTION

Well Known New York Merchant Shot by Armenian Patriot.

New York, July 22.—As he stepped out on the sidewalk from his home on East 17th street, near Union Square, H. Tavshanjian, a wealthy rug importer and Persian commissioner to the Chicago world's fair in 1893, was shot from behind and almost killed by a fellow Armenian. The assassin, a shabbily dressed Armenian, declared, according to the police, that he came here from Chicago especially to kill the merchant.

According to the police the prisoner declared that he killed Tavshanjian because the merchant had refused to contribute to the financing of a revolution in Armenia against Turkish rule. "I killed him to save my country," the man told the police. "We have asked him for money. He had plenty. He would give no money to us, his countrymen."

The shooting occurred at a busy hour and caused much excitement. The assassin was pursued by bystanders and when close pressed he turned and fired on them with a revolver, seriously wounding Robert Brown, a clerk.

The police were hurried to the scene, but they might be some connection between the assassination of Tavshanjian and the mysterious murder of an Armenian priest, whose body was found in a trunk at a lodging house here several weeks ago. The priest's murder also was attributed to his refusal to aid the Armenian revolutionists.

Akron, O., July 23.—A. B. Darling of Baltimore, agent of the Standard Oil company, was beaten into unconsciousness and robbed by unknown criminals at the company's house. A wallet containing $100 was taken.

Selins Grove, Pa., July 23.—Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, daughter of Capt. Thomas H. Hoffman, was accidentally thrown by Lake Winola, near Selins Grove, after she had been made by Dr. James Stein, her fiancé, to save her.

SENTENCED TO HANG.

Prof. Karl Hau Convicted in German Court of Killing Frau Molitor.

CROWDS EXHIBIT SYMPATHY

Hostile Demonstration Made Against Members of Molitor Family in Berlin That Hau Has Been Unjustly Convicted—Hau Will Appeal.

Karlsruhe, July 23.—Karl Hau, a brilliant young law professor of Washington, D. C., has been condemned to death after a five days' trial for the murder of his wife's mother, Frau Molitor, a wealthy resident of Baden, in that city November 6 last. The prisoner heard the verdict of the jury with perfect composure and calmly smiling with his counsel after the judges withdrew to fix his sentence. Upon the return of the judges Hau arose and, standing erect with folded arms, listened to the sentence without moving a muscle. A moment later he was hurried away to prison by half a dozen policemen. The sentence is unpopular with the street crowds, which have been demonstrating more and more openly for several days in Hau's favor and against the Molitor family.

After the adjournment of the court for an hour's recess at 8 o'clock last evening the women of the Molitor party were compelled to remain in one of the offices of the courthouse because it was dangerous for them to appear in the streets. A carriage waited for them in the courtyard and it was several hours before they were able to leave. Meanwhile enormous crowds had assembled in the streets adjacent to the courthouse. Cordon of police kept the crowds in check for an hour of more, but then lost control of them, the masses pushing and crushing forward to the doors with the evident intention of storming the entrance.

There were many shouts from the crowd of "Hau is not guilty," the voices penetrating to the courtroom. Finally two companies of infantry and a squadron of mounted police appeared on the scene and drove the rioters before them. The infantry, with fixed bayonets, cleared all the streets within 300 yards of the courthouse.

A large number of arrests were made. One old woman was trampled down by the horses and it is reported that several other persons were wounded.

The demonstration in favor of Hau appears to be due largely to the same maddening sentiment which has made a hero out of many another accused of a daring crime. To the unthinking people Hau's daring trip to Baden-Baden made him appear a hero. Another reason for the demonstrations that have taken place in the last few days are reports in the state's attorney's manner of conducting the prosecution and it is further explained by citizens that the Molitors are unpopular in Karlsruhe, having lived here until 1899.

The sentencing of Hau does not end the case, Dr. Dietz, his counsel, having in his address practically given notice of appeal.

DEATH LIST UNKNOWN.

Doubt as to Number of Victims of Disaster at Sea Off San Francisco Harbor.

United Press Telegram, SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Today's latest reports of the disaster at sea again throws doubt on the number of lifeboats bearing survivors, which were saved. This also tends to cast doubts on reports that 177 persons have been saved. It is now denied that more than one lifeboat was picked up. It contained 16 survivors and the bodies of two victims. Six life boats and three life rafts were cut loose. Until all are accounted for it will be impossible to know the exact number saved.

Even then a few persons, who were able to cling to wreckage, may have been picked up by steamers that will carry them to other ports before they are heard from.
